- before you can speak like an american, you've gotta hear like an american
- 100 - 300 hrs.
- at least 5 hrs/wk... 10 would be better
- at least one 90 min session/wk with teacher
- i can't teach you english listening/speaking skills... i can only help you learn english listening/speaking skills... a lot faster than you can by yourself
- there is no magic here... no shortcut
- it takes some time... 100 - 300 hrs.
- there are two classes... listening, and speaking... each 75 min long... you may attend more than one session/wk... additional sessions are $10 each
- session is 8 wks long — $200

- thank you for renting me the room
- it's a good space and i will enjoy living here
- i have noticed several situations that i would like to bring to your attention...
 1. downstairs bathroom faucet leaks badly and will eventually destroy the bathroom floor if it's not fixed... plus it just very unpleasant using the sink. it's probably just in need of a new washer
 2. the hose in the front yard is unusable so i can't rinse the dew off my car in the mornings... having no hose available is very inconvenient
 3. the vacuum cleaner doesn't work. it's probably as simple as replacing the belt that turns the brush. i know a place that can fix it. i'll take it there and get it fixed if you pay for it.
 4. the side gate (next to the garage) needs repair so that it can be used easily. the hinge apparatus has become loosened from its attachment to the wall. this is important to me because i would prefer for my friends to be able to visit me without having to go through the house

5. the car in the driveway... all you have to do is call the police and tell them that someone has abandoned a car in your driveway. the police will come and tow it away.
6. the front lawn is being over-watered. this makes it muddy and dirty on the shoes, tracking mud into the house. it also costs you more money than you need to spend. the lawn needs only be watered twice a week for about 5 minutes each time. you'll save money and we'll be able to walk on the lawn without dragging mud into the house please allow me to introduce myself

- it's good to find you, my brother
- i woke up when i was 21
- i read "the supreme identity" by alan watts
- i THOROUGHLY discovered that i didn't have a clue who i was or what i was doing here
- i never recovered

- until that moment, i had merely been living out the unconscious assumptions of my family/culture/language machine
- i began gathering all the information i could find that i thought would help my discover who i was and what i should do with my life
- i meditated... i did est... i read... i fucked a lot of women... i talked a lot about love and enlightenment
- after ten years i came to a realization that i was not one bit closer to answering my questions than when i began the quest... i was a lot better at talking about it, though
- i had, however, noticed that the majority of my endeavors involved various activities in the domain of the language
- along the way i came across AK's Science and Sanity
- as you know, understanding all this is of little consequence
- it's too late for most post-pubescent sapes
- the opportunity before us is to raise a new generation of "transhumans" who are unburdened by the erroneous, unconscious assumptions that have disabled humanity for thousands of years
- it's time for an eruption of enlightenment

- he sees brain activity and assumes it is THE cause

? might it not be a symptom, itself

? how are we to know which is cause and which is effect

? could it be related to so-called goal-directed behavior

? perhaps, before we begin drugging yet another segment of the population into “normality”, we might determine more accurately what type(s) of behaviors are correlated with these types of brain activities

- i'm not suggesting that drugs are a bad idea... just that they should be used more judiciously, not as a means of last resort necessarily, but certainly after less intrusive methods have failed

- perhaps we could train people to not think in certain specific mental activities... much as we now advise people of the dangers of smoking

- people need to be made aware of the dangers of “the”, 2-valued logic, unjustified absolutism, mis-identification, reification (misplaced concreteness)

annie fan

hello annie

- thanks for talking with me last night
- i won't give you a complete explanation here
- i'll just give you the basics and then, if you want to procede, i'll go into more detail
- the most important requirement is that you have a strong desire to dramatically improve your English speaking skills
- i have developed a new system to teach English speaking skills and i'm looking for a small number of students to experiment with
- the theory is simple... before you can speak english accurately, you've gotta hear english accurately
- right now you hear english with chinese ears... the way you were programmed as a child
- although this system is vastly superior to what has gone before, it is not magic
- it still takes time... between 100 and 300 hours of practice to reprogram your ears to hear english accurately
- at 1 hour per day that would take between 3 and 10 months approximately
- pacing is entirely up to a student
- i expect a sincere student to put in a minimum of 1/2 hour per day
- more would be better
- after you learn to hear accurately, you will be able to correct your own speaking

- the work consists in listening to short sound files containing 2, 3, 5 or more phonemes and then writing what you think you hear in a simple phonetic script you will learn
- at first it will be difficult/confusing, but do not give up... you will quickly get used to it and begin to hear in a new way
- you will hear things you never heard before
- i say “listening/speaking” skills in that order because listening comes first
- before you can speak english properly, you’ve gotta hear english properly
- you will need:
 - a computer capable of playing MP3s
 - gizmo

Help installing and dealing with VPC/Windows XP

I'm about to enter the netherworld of Windows. I've had a mac since 1983 and feel fortunate to say that I've never done windows... until now.

But there's an art rendering program I want to experiment with, and, alas, it runs only on windows. So I downloaded VPC 7.0.2 today. An acquaintance has Windows XP on a CD.

I haven't installed anything yet. I haven't even downloaded the software from the vendor's site yet.

All I want to do is run this one program. (I suspect that it is very CPU-intensive.) I don't have a clue how to deal with windows and would appreciate any hints, directions, suggestions, URLs, etc. on installation and management of VPC and Windows XP

Several initial questions come to mind:

1. how much disk space will it need?
2. Is 1.25 GB RAM sufficient?
3. must it be installed on my boot drive?

my system: dual 1.25 G4, MMD, 1.25GB RAM, OSX 10.4.4

Help!

- without that solid physical underpinning, all further development will remain superficial
- esl students need to ask themselves seriously what their committed* intentions are
- * being committed to a something means you will achieve it... or die in a process of achieving it
- changing your language is more difficult/fundamental than changing your religion... has more far-reaching personal implications
- a student must decide IF it is committed to developing a new "self" or not... it's OK either way about the concept/word “species

- there is no such “thing” as a species
- a species is a category of thought... it does not exist outside the domain of language
- a species may be conceived in more than one way... as a territory may be represented by more than one type of map
- species may be distinguished by biological interbreedability...
- that’s a fine way, a very useful way for many purposes
- but... it is not THE way
- it’s only A way
- one could define species by how their language machines function
- this turns out also to be a very useful way of thinking in other circumstances where an interbreedability scheme sheds no light english NG response/invitation

- please join me in 1222gendo and we can talk
- i'll be available for your questioning
- come and meet me, talk with me, maybe i can caende your opinion of me and my work... maybe not
- although i am accustomed now to the often vicious attacks, it still hurts me at some level
- most people want the love and respect of their peers
- i'd appreciate an opportunity to talk directly with any of you who are so upset by my posts here
- often, people are more civil in spoken communication than they are in writing

- you might discover than i am not what you may think i am
- we all share an interest in language
- i think a multitude of approaches to the subject should be invigorating
- the fact that i have a radically different approach to linguistics than the majority here needn't be seen as a problem to be corrected... but could be thought of as part of the complex reality of language in 21st century Earth
- i think that if we could talk together in a civilized manner, we could overcome the animosity that currently reigns

06/3/19 — 14:34

- taking responsibility for reprogramming one's own language machine
- it's not always an easy task
- it takes a sustained effort over a period of months... or even years
- the simplest, most cost-effective course is to raise the next generation to be saved from the 5 stupidities (at least)
- a time is coming when people will have to choose

- becoming aware of the choice is the first step toward an intelligent response to reality
- if you really understand what this choice entails, you may already have decided
- the question is... “? did you choose consciously/intelligently”
- you can choose again
- most of what you now think is your most selfiest self, is an act... a recurring pattern in the language machine... not the one listening to it
- despite our radically different perspectives, i assume that we can find a way to make our words serve the higher good
- there’s just something about usenet that leads people to uncivility
- i have been a perpetratur on occasion
- i hereby ask for the forgiveness of alli have maligned over the years
- all you know of me is my propaganda
- admittedly, it is provocative
- but you are mistaken if you think that is me... the one looking thru these eyes
- come and talk with me

- Titanic sunk in less than 4 hours
- it was destined to go down in the first minute
- few people understood the severity of the situation until somewhat later
- one of the determining factors of an individual's survival is... how early they realized their plight
 - several other factors are involved in this process, their physical location, their intelligence, their linguistic tendency to reject scary realities, denial,

? why should it feel like a failure to realize that the situation has changed

- i would think people would seek to keep their maps current... to be looking for situations to re-interpret

- i know two things:
 1. adult esl students from china, korea, japan, vietnam, cambodia, thailand and laos do not hear the sounds of spoken english like native speakers do
 2. i have found no school or teacher in south california that is effectively addressing the issue

- it's a machine... a meat machine... but a machine nonetheless
- it runs by programming
- at first, all you can do is observe it... as a scientist
- but as you observe it, it's behavior changes
- over time, a new “i” emerges that is not bound by the LM... a programmer
- the LM is still a meat machine... but a better programmed one...
- and you are now longer swept away by it's operation
- it's just there... a resource to be tapped... sometimes it's brilliant... sometimes it's not
- you are not what you think you are

- you are ineffable, unspeakable... because language doesn't go there
- language has a limited scope
- it's very helpful to be clear about what can and can't actually be talked about... when you make sense and when you don't
- a shocking truth is that almost everything you know is wrong... or you know it wrongly... hold it wrongly response to raan

? what is your intention in this dialogue

- if you're not interested in what i have to share, why engage at all

? do you just enjoy arguing

- are you interested in an exchange of ideas

? why do i consider my way superior

- this is the heart of the matter

- i'll save the other stuff for our voice conversation

- i have identified what i call The Five Stupidities of english

- these are easily identifiable words/structures/etc.

- they operate in a manner similar to default values in some data base applications

- if you do your linguistic thinking in unreconstructed english, you are subject to certain unconscious assumptions that "come with the territory"

- it's not easy to reprogram one's LM

- nevertheless, i have achieved some small success and can report that i am considerably less stupid than i was in the past

- i further assert that the world would be a less unpleasant place if a new generation of people who were less stupid than us were to inherit Earth from us

- i'm not interested in arguing about this

- i am interested in sharing what i've learned

- i am interested further exploration/collaboration/constructive criticism/etc.

- i undertake this dialog with intentions of expanding my own ongoing liberation and that of all beings so-interested
- consider another case... admittedly less likely, but equally instructive
- imagine a bonobo who miraculously somehow develops linguistic abilities and is able to express his inner feelings and thoughts and intentions
- if it doesn't believe everything.... then i assert it qualifies for inclusion in the same species as me regardless of it's genetic inheritance
- if it does believe everything, i would have no difficulty assigning to your species (linguistically)
- i also recognize that we have different agendas
- you see our encounter differently
- i come here as an explorer/experimenter
- i'm not looking to write some definitive response
- i'm looking for people to play with
- i relish the time element that requires me to respond before i have finalized my thinking
- i sometimes surprise myself with
- i discover new thinking ie my LM
- i am not clear why you initiated this discussion
- ? do you have any interest in the subject of language and its relationships with thinking/etc.

- they heard the voice as something other

- spiders, trees, birds, monkeys, elephants all lived together in a stable evolving environment/system
- there are at least two different sub-species of homo sapiens... those that are identified with their LMs... and those that are not
- it is a more useful distinction (at least to me) than genetic inheritance

- genetic inheritance is way too technical for me
- i want to know if i'm talking with a language robot or a conscious entity
- consider adam (probably eve)
- when it dawned on "i" that the voice was "him" and not god, it was forever separated from its flockmembers
- he may well have been thought crazy
- "they" couldn't possibly understand anything adam was talking about
- there were probably many adams... over a period of tens (?) of thousands of years
- it's taken thousands of generations for eve's way to succeed and flourish
- now we are coming to a new realization... adam got it wrong
- the voice is not "me" or "i"
- the voice is my language machine (LM)
- sometimes it says some pretty smart stuff
- other times it's totally insane
- there is no need to defend the insanity
- an initial move might be to declare an intention to think as clearly as possible... to declare an analytic mode of language... really for a start... english minus the 5 stupidities

- there are other non-linguistic aspect of thinking... they are also important...
- but language is something we are actually beginning to understand... something we can improve upon... really... like public health was improved in the late 19th century... with all its attendant benefits
- imagine a world of people who can actually think... who know the difference between what's actually happening and their explanation of what's happening... their story about what's happening
- i have identified what i call the 5 stupidities
- trying to talk about/think about the problems/opportunities facing humanity with wild english is a little like trying to rebuild a mercedes with a hammer and a screwdriver... the tools are not up to the task
- i neither discovered nor invented the 5 stupidities
- i simply offer them repackaged... in a novel setting perhaps
- the material is not controversial
- only a lunatic could fail to see the obvious nonsense embedded in english, once it is pointed out
- but merely understanding the 5 makes no difference
- reprogramming the LM is what is required
- after puberty, the likelihood that a human will dramatically reprogram its LM declines rapidly the basic transhuman rap

- one of the fundamental differences between sapes and transapes is that sapes actually believe everything they hear their language machine say
- your language machine will probably start talking to you as soon as i stop talk...
- that voice... the one that talks to you every moment you are awake is your language machine
- sapes have been programmed to think that voice is "who i am",

- sapes believe everything they hear it say
- they think they said it
- this is not too different from the guy who said that he killed his neighbors because his dog told him to do it
- if my dog told me to kill my neighbors i'd ask why he wants me to do that
- he'd have to do some pretty fancy convincing

Mastering MOS

- for the past 6,000 years, humans have been laboring under the hallucination that the voice in their head was “me”
 - prior to that, the voice was attributed to gods/kings/etc. telling them what needed to be done
 - since the onset of the computer era, some of the language monkeys have begun to wake up to a realization that the voice is not “me”, but merely a subroutine of the MOS (monkey operating system)
- ? what distinguishes the first two systems from the third
- people felt obliged to obey the voice when it was conceived of as a god or the “self”
 - but the LM needn’t be obeyed... it may be reprogrammed

06/6/9 — 14:52

- it's impossible to talk sensibly about the "self"... since there is no such "thing"
- we can talk about an emergence of a language machine
- in the beginning, the voice was something other
- later it was thought to be "i"
- the two are similar in that the monkey blindly obeys whatever it hear the voice say... be the voice god or i

- only with an emergence of an editor/programmer do we become free of domination by “the voice”

06/6/9 — 15:12

- baby sapes are brought up to believe that they will become “adults” and that will be the end of transformations
- they are barely conscious of the transformations they have already undergone... fertilized ovum, embryo, fetus, neonate, toddler, walker, talker, runner, self, sexually ripe monkey,

06/6/11 — 15:18

- both apes and sapes (lapes) are controlled by the MOS
- translapes are free from the LM portion of MOS

- i use the 2 terms (sapes/lapes) almost interchangeably... except that “sapes” has a sort of smirking derogatory, attitude, “lapes” is merely an accurate description... language monkeys

06/6/11 — 15:45

citizenship training

- pre-citizen monkys (never unsupervised) should be trained to accept responsibility for the consequences of their speaking... the accuracy of the speech

- in the past, i have allowed myself to become angry when i see humans doing things that make the world worse... attacking the caterpillar
- it doesn't make my life better
- when is a confrontation necessary/useful

- if there is ongoing interference, it probably needs to be addressed
- but turn-signal-assholes are merely annoying... one time
- so-called “selfish” people are that way because they are stuck in the story of who/what they think they are
- the only hope is a realization that what you take to be you deepest, most selfiest self... is an act... and it’s time to drop it
- break identity with the LM
- this doesn’t answer a question like, “?then, who/what am i”

observing sapes

- a bull sape walks into the reading room at starbucks and pretends to look for a wall outlet
 - i assume he has seen the one next to me
 - he gives a half-assed look around and leaves
 - he didn't see two outlets simply because he didn't really look
 - he didn't actually stoop down enough to see the wall under the table
 - i bet if he were asked if there were available outlets in that room, he would say no
- what's going on inside a skull is actually a reflection of the entire universe outside the skull
 - what's going on inside is everything outside... everything but me/i
 - if you are everything outside your monkey and so am i... then we are almost the same entity write to robert

- i am troubled by our talking this morning
 - i get it that your are angry with me
 - i have a vision of R7net
 - some of the ideas are core ideas about language and thinking
 - you may not like, agree with, or understand all parts of my vision
 - i don't expect you to
 - i don't expect anything from you
 - i appreciate every second of your time
- you're applying your map to a territory that was designed from a different blueprint
 - i recognize that some of the ideas i have in mind for R7net may require a significant amount of time and attention of people
 - if this is a deal-breaker for you and me... so be it
 - your generous assistance so far has made all the difference
 - now R7net is more than just a neat idea in me head
 - R7net is about a network of individuals working together
 - if i'm just too much of an asshole for you to deal with, then we will not be working together
 - i'm not interested in why something can't be done
 - i want to discover how it can be most easily be done
 - it's not an either/or choice (the 2nd stupidity of english)

- it's both/and
- yes, the ideas/content of R7net is fundamental
- but the way it is presented is equally fundamental
- you think i'm being excessively picky about a trivial issue
- but you aren't in a position to judge that
- this text formatting is part of an entire move to alter the way people think about and use language
- it is fundamental to some aspect of R7net
- all i can do is ask you to accept my idea about how R7net is going to be developed
- if we can't work together, so be it
- if you would like me to move R7net to another server, tell me and it will be done
- you think i'm wasting a lot of your time, being excessively picky about what you think is a trivial issue
- if you and i have made a mistake in trying to work together, then let's at least learn what lesson we can from the experience... and not to waste our time in the future
- we need to resolve this rift soon
- we have to be on the same team our part
- we are also going to be integrating the lunar calendar into the site
- that will probably be even more difficult
- i don't know
- i don't care
- it's on the agenda for R7net
- R7net is part of the future operating here/now
- parts of it may not always make sense to you

- at least consider the possibility that maybe you just don't understand everything that's going on
- certainly it's possible that i am just an arrogant asshole who has to have everything his picky way
- if, after this letter, that's your understanding, then i won't subject to dealing with me any longer
- it would surely be a lot easier for me, if we can overcome this problem
- no matter what happens, you will have been the guy who gave R7net its second home
- thank you

About The Nature Of Maps

- some maps are fictitious
- some maps are blueprints
- some maps are ambiguous
- some maps are out-of-date (bibles)
- some maps are wrong
- some maps are lies
- some maps are quite useful in some well-defined situations

- no map is ever THE ONE TRUE MAP
- all maps emerge from interactions between language monkeys and their total environment (the universe)... and subsequently embodied in language
- so, (in one way of looking at it), heron is actually everything except heron's body... in a manner similar to how it can be said that what i see as green is actually red in itself... it throws out all the green light (which we see), but keeps all the red to itself and thus... is red... even though we see green
- this applies equally to all entities

06/10/14 — 16:03

a major assumption

- R7 is a member of a species
 - in has its own teleological development

CAST

- a quest to make a positive contribution to the world... to actually participate in something that makes the world a better place for all of us
- for an increasing number of us, it's time to begin building a new world the choice

caterpillar or fly

- most of you have chosen the caterpillar and don't even know you had any options
- you were programmed/hypnotized by your parents/tv/school/peers/etc. to believe that their particular/peculiar map was not merely one way of thinking about things

06/12/8 — 15:12

transhumans

- one distinguishing characteristic of transhumans is having an optimistic vision of the future and feeling myself to be an active participant in an emergent new world
- to have a purpose in living beyond the monkeys well-being... to have an intention to make a contribution to life/Earth/Bob
- the old way was to live for your family/tribe/clan/etc
- most people nowadays don't really believe that... they say they believe it but their actions are not in alignment with their words
- so they have nothing but self gratification to motivate them
- ? who said it... most sapes lead lives of quiet desperation
- but modern sapes are too cool to admit it... they portray themselves as knowing all the answers... having it all together
- knowing the world is changing... fast
- waking up most mornings with a positive vision of the world... knowing somehow that what i'm doing is contributing to and participating in the emerging new world
- wanting to contribute
- overwhelming gratitude

? how is skype pronounced

- IMPORTANCE of accurate and timely control and status reporting of mics (on/off (green/red) is better terminology)
 - a continuing problem of the list disappearing and status of zero participants be reported (fixed by muting-unmuting)
 - add/edit casts for immediate future
 - automatic group chat
 - kick and block from re-entering (chat/talk)
 - remove limitations on characters in titles and descriptions
 - allow for longer descriptions
 - weekly scheduling into far future
 - manage (my casts) keep some beyond to weeks... delete others
 - contacts control (hierarchical folders)
 - people have reported an inability to see the full description of the cast or the associated url (perhaps they don't know how to use the system)
 - cast-hopping problem with only one cast window -- using (back)
- ? what is the purpose of moving casts into the app
- ? what are skype's intentions for casting
- ? what are your intentions for mac
- ? web or app
- why not return to the way it was in the beginning... include enough in the app to draw people to it
 - i haven't seen the windows app, but i'm worried about what i've heard
- ? how many windows are necessary for skypecasting
- one web window
- on now

- coming soon
- all casts (why?)
- my casts
- two skype windows
 - call windows — for switching between casts (in skype)
 - chat windows
